If you are interested in spending a few weeks this winter studying tropical bees in Costa Rica, tracing ancient Mayan social organizations or documenting the traditional architecture of West African villages, contact UC's Research Expeditions Program (UREP).

A UC-Berkeley based program, UREP specializes in matching interested amateurs from the general public with UC researchers to carry out field work in the US and abroad on research expeditions in disciplines ranging from archaeology to zoology.

UREP participants help cover expedition expenses by making a tax-deductible contribution to join each project. For further information contact: University Research Expeditions Program (UREP), University of California, Desk NRF, Berkeley, CA 94720, or call 642-6586.

Applications for UC cancer funds for the 1984-85 year are due in the Office of the President by January 27, 1984.

The funds provide small grants for new faculty and non-cancer related investigators to initiate studies in new areas. The funds are used to support new projects, not to continue or supplement existing ones.

Academic Senate members may apply; assistant professors beginning their research programs are particularly encouraged.

For further information contact the Contracts and Grants Office at x2977.

Pre-employment testing, genetic screening and medical monitoring in the workplace will be discussed at an Occupational Health Conference on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 8 and 9, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Oakland.

The program is sponsored by the Labor Occupational Health Program, a component of the Northern California Occupational Health Center and the Institute of Industrial Relations, UC-Berkeley. To register call 642-5507.

Edwin C. Cadman, MD, is the new director of the Cancer Research Institute (CRI) and also holds the positions of professor of Medicine and chief of Hematology and Oncology, according to Rudi Schmid, MD, dean of the School of Medicine.

Cadman came to UCSF in July from Yale, where he was associate professor of Medicine and Pharmacology and co-chief of the Medical Oncology Section. He is internationally known for his studies on the biochemical activation of drugs and the mechanisms of drug toxicity in cancer treatment.

Working with his colleagues in the field of DNA and RNA metabolism, Cadman is attempting to identify the differences between cancer and normal cells and to determine why malignancies are responsive to specific drugs or drug combinations.

Cadman received his bachelor's degree from Stanford and his MD from the University of Oregon. A member of the American Federation for Clinical Research and the American Society for Clinical Investigation, he received a Young Investigator Research Award from NIH in 1978.

The fourth annual Kimura Lecture will be presented on Thursday, November 17, at 9:15 a.m. in S 214. Robert Machemer, MD, professor and chair of Ophthalmology at Duke University, who is known by many as the inventor of modern vitreous surgery, will speak on "Retinal Detachment: Changing Concepts."

The lectureship honors the late Samuel J. Kimura, MD, UCSF professor emeritus of Ophthalmology, who died in 1979. He had a long and distinguished career as an outstanding clinician and educator and was a world authority on uveitis and other ocular inflammatory diseases. The lectureship is sponsored by the Department of Ophthalmology and supported by funds from Mrs. Amy S. McNamara in memory of Kimura.

Give what you can to the United Way . . . every dollar helps.

UCSF deans and senior administrators have joined Chancellor Krevans in an almost 100 percent participation in this year's United Way campaign, which runs the week of October 31 to November 4.

In a letter to the campus community, Chancellor Krevans said that increased participation is emphasized this year. Employees are being asked to give only what they can afford. "It is not the amount that matters," he declared. "If you can't give $50, give $5. If you can't give $5, give $1. But show that you care."

Donor representatives from each department and division on campus will be handing out envelopes to each employee during that week, asking for donations.

During the campaign, employees can make a lump sum contribution or authorize monthly deductions from paychecks to United Way. Employees may designate their contribution to any one of the United Agencies; to campus-related programs, such as the UCSF Child Care/Study Center, the foster grandparents program, or Koret Family House; or to other needy programs, such as the Shanti Project or the Kaposi's Sarcoma Foundation to help AIDS patients.

Ninety-two cents out of every dollar will go to the agency; eight cents is used for administrative costs.

A new outpatient service has taken a giant step in eliminating two of the biggest problems for children with cancer — pain and separation from parents.

Designed for pediatric patients who do not require hospitalization but must undergo frequent, painful therapeutic treatment or diagnostic procedures, the outpatient service is a collaborative effort of the Hospitals and Clinics, Department of Anesthesiology, Division of Pediatric Oncology and Division of Ocular Oncology.

The new service makes use of special anesthesiology techniques in which the patient is anesthetized for less than 15 minutes. Parents are present during the procedure, and younger children have the benefit of waking up from the anesthesia in the lap of a parent. In addition, the new service is highly cost-effective — about one-fourth the usual cost of using a hospital operating room.

UCSF pediatric oncology staff use the service for three common diagnostic procedures which must be done on a regular basis in order to monitor the effectiveness of cancer therapy: bone marrow aspiration, bone marrow biopsy, and lumbar puncture. In addition, UCSF ophthalmologists use the service for diagnosis and evaluation of malignant tumors of the retina (retinoblastoma) in children.

Tickets are now available for a special performance of "The Chinese Opera" to be held on Sunday, November 13, at 2 p.m. at the Palace of Fine Arts. Featuring veteran performers and musicians, the opera is being sponsored by the Lee Foundation of San Francisco and benefits the UCSF Cancer Research Institute. UCSF faculty, staff and students are invited to attend. For ticket information call 929-1417.

UCSF has received a $210,000 grant from the Koret Foundation to establish offices and clinical laboratories for the study of human nutrition at San Francisco General Hospital. The facility, which will be called the Koret Center for Human Nutrition, is part of the SFGH-based Bay Area Human Nutrition Center. Both are under the direction of Norman Kretchmer, MD, PhD, professor and chair of the Department of Nutritional Sciences at UC-Berkeley, and professor of Pediatrics and Obstetrics at UCSF.

Projects at the Bay Area Human Nutrition Center include a program to assess the nutritional status of immigrant school children and develop culturally specific nutrition education programs for schools. Other studies concentrate on nutrition and diabetes, dietary requirements during pregnancy and their effect on fetal growth and gastrointestinal disorders in children.

The new Koret Center is located on the first floor of Building 40 at SFGH. Construction will be completed by spring 1984.

In addition to support from the Koret Foundation, the Bay Area Human Nutrition Center receives funds from the SF Foundation, the US Department of Agriculture, NIH, the Bay Area March of Dimes and the Nestle Company.

Mushroom hunters, beware! Several cases of wild mushroom poisoning have been reported to the S.F. Bay Area Regional Poison Control Center. Every fall, deadly species that can be confused with edible mushrooms flourish throughout Northern California. The Center suggests that if you want to gather wild mushrooms, go with an expert; when in doubt, don't pick them. For information on poisoning symptoms call the Control Center at x2845.

John A. Ziegler, professor of Medicine and associate chief of staff for Education at the VAMC, will be awarded the Heath Memorial Award of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, University of Texas System Cancer Center in Houston, on November 10 for his contributions to research and treatment in the field of malignant lymphoma.

More than a decade ago, Ziegler developed the first effective treatment for Burkitt's lymphoma—the fastest-growing human tumor, so deadly that only one out of five patients survived. But now Burkitt's lymphoma, along with another rare cancer called Kaposi's sarcoma, has assumed a new and ominous prominence in this country because of its association with AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome).

Ziegler is co-principal investigator for an AIDS research program funded by a $1.3 million grant from the National Cancer Institute. He recently stated the hypothesis that AIDS is itself an opportunistic infection that strikes only people whose immune systems are already severely damaged.

In 1982 UC had some $60,000 worth of materials stolen. According to UCSF Police Chief Raymond A. Clark, these losses are due to the fact that several campus areas are highly accessible to the public and that certain members of the campus community need access to the University 24 hours a day.

In an effort to control property thefts, the UCSF Police Department has created a full-time Crime Prevention and Loss Control Unit that incorporates a "property loan form" which monitors any authorized equipment that leaves the University.

For details about this new program, departments should contact Officer Joseph Lambert at x1414.

Peter D. Eisenberg, MD, UCSF assistant clinical professor of Medicine, is the new host of "KCBS Health Magazine," a two-hour show on KCBS AM 740, aired every Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m.

Virginia Ernster, associate professor, Epidemiology and International Health, and Neal Benowitz, associate professor, Medicine and Clinical Pharmacy in Psychiatry, will be Eisenberg's guests on November 6 when they speak on smoke in the workplace.

Students and house staff officers may now purchase COPYTEX photocopy cards for use in the UCSF Library. The cards, which allow 100 copies for $5 or 200 copies for $10, are on sale in the Library Administration Office, HSE 285, weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Library also is offering borrower's fee cards for visitors to the campus who are California residents. The card, which costs $50 per year, enables the individual to borrow any of the Library's circulating materials.

Faculty, students and staff interested in determining their borrowing privileges should call the Library at x2334.

Pearl Toy, MD, professor of Laboratory Medicine and Medicine, is one of five physicians selected nationwide to receive a National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute Academic Career Award.

The five-year, $292,000 award was given to Toy, who also is chief of the Blood Bank at SFGH, to head an interdisciplinary committee on transfusion medicine. The committee will permanently restructure the School of Medicine undergraduate curriculum, create programs for postgraduate residents in various specialties and initiate research seminars.

Transfusion therapy has grown into a complicated discipline, according to Toy. Blood components are routinely used to treat cancer and surgical patients and have several specialized applications, ranging from kidney transplantation to the treatment of sickle cell disease.

UCSF and its affiliated teaching hospitals—SFGH and the VAMC—are well suited for such a program because of the number of faculty who are experts in specific areas of transfusion medicine, Toy says.

Are you a quitter? Would you like to be? The Langley Porter Habit Abatement Clinic is accepting participants in its "stop smoking" program. Individuals must be between the ages of 21 and 55 and must not have high blood pressure, heart or lung diseases or ulcers; women must not be pregnant.

The Clinic uses the behavioral approach to non-smoking, including aversive smoking and relaxation training and the self-help approach, which focuses on development of an individual plan to stop smoking.

A refundable deposit of $75 is required. For further information call x77-453.

The School of Dentistry has set up a memorial fund for Richard Martin Bobadilla, a 1983 graduate of the school who died in an automobile accident in August. Contributions of any size are appreciated. Checks should be made payable to the Regents of the University of California for the Dr. Richard Bobadilla Fund. For further information contact Barbra A. Richardson at x2737.
